

Above, chocolate brown dot-imprint stretch cotton single-breasted one-button jacket with turquoise satin lining, $175; below, blue felt hat with black faux patent leather band and bow, $160

Chocolate brown stretch cotton dot-imprint knee-length shift dress with oversized puff sleeves, $300

Green stretch twill cotton cropped shirt with vintage-looking purple resin button, $175; multipaneled straight cotton-blend tweed fuchsia, red and orange houndstooth skirt with flared hem and purple satin lining, $250

From top, charcoal longhaired felt fedora trimmed with black patent band and gray felt petal, $170; white waffle-weave straw hat with feathers, $275

Tanya Benzaquen, 29 *

THE LOOK: Vintage-inspired women's wear with great proportions, contemporary designs and excellent finish work. » THE SCHOOL: Seattle's International Academy of Design Technology apparel design program. » THE INSPIRATION: The bright colors of her Spanish/Moroccan father's culture and the tailored look of her English mother's heritage, as well as designers Alexander McQueen, Christian Lacroix and Sonia Rykiel. Benzaquen also studied millinery design at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York and still creates beautifully made straw and felt hats with a retro look.

 WHERE TO FIND IT:
To purchase any of Tanya Benzaquen's one-of-a-kind designs, contact her at info@hatsbytanya.com or visit hatsbytanya.com.